April 9, 2020 – Williams Patent Crusher is currently still open for business. We are still operating and committed to assisting our customers with new equipment, repairs and technical service. We are also working hard to ensure the health and safety of our employees and our communities.

The States of Missouri and Illinois and our local cities/counties have issued Stay at Home orders to minimize the number of employees who are allowed to leave their homes to work onsite at a business location.

Williams Patent Crusher and Pulverizer Company, Inc. supports Critical and Essential Infrastructure Businesses

Many of the Stay at Home orders identify noted exceptions, namely work performed by and for “Critical and Essential Infrastructure” companies, as defined by the CISA division of the US Department of Homeland Security, issued on March 19, 2020 (“CISA Guidance”). This classification defines essential industries that are critical to the well-being of our country and defines those essential workers as, “workers who support crucial supply chains and enable functions for critical infrastructure.”

Many of the industries and functions CISA defines as critical and essential are ones to which Williams Patent Crusher provides direct and vital manufacturing equipment and maintenance support, including forest products, food and agricultural products, energy, minerals, and chemicals. Williams Patent Crusher considers itself a key contributor in ensuring critical and essential businesses continue to function in as productive a fashion as possible, and we are working hard to meet current and future obligations.

Williams Patent Crusher is following the guidance of international health authorities and making sure we put in place recommended processes to prevent the spread of the virus and support the ongoing well-being of our employees, their families, vendors and customers. Many of our employees are working remotely to fully support those that are in the office and production facilities. We have implemented additional cleaning practices, social distancing and travel restrictions in accordance with CDC recommendations. We are also following the recommended guidelines for testing and quarantine in the event that any of our employees are exposed to or exhibit symptoms of COVID-19.

We value your business and are committed to helping you be successful during these difficult times. If there is anything Williams Patent Crusher can help you with, let us know.
